Bowie, Maryland – United States – September 30, 2009 – Lovetropolis.com, a Bowie Maryland company owned by The Lombard Company, Inc., is offering a free lifetime membership for their dating service. For a limited time, there will be a one-time $17.95 profile approval and activation fee; but after that, there are no monthly or annual user fees of any kind. They are claiming they are the only full-service major market dating site making an offer of this kind in their industry.

Lovetropolis.com was launched in February of 2009 and is currently providing dating services in twenty three countries. A company spokesperson describes their site design as “unique” and their goal as, “creating a website that is more user-friendly and offers an experience unlike any other on the web today.” He goes on to say, “We set out to provide a better, safer, and more fulfilling dating experience for users who were tired of the same old thing; and we've accomplished that."

Lovetropolis.com offers ethnic dating options for Christian, Jewish, Asian, Black and Latin patrons. They also have a general pool and provide dating "tips" from a number of experts including Amy Waterman, Christian Carter, Scot McKay and Emily McKay. They add in an online magazine, daily horoscopes and lovescopes, member blogs and a feature called Chef Jay's Romantic Recipes. The additions set it apart from other paid monthly membership sites that offer only profiles and messaging.

"We implement social networking tools to provide additional functionality for members," our spokesperson tells us. "Lovetropolis.com members can send emails using the site's internal delivery system, blog and comment, maintain a list of favorite profiles, upload videos from YouTube and add unique gadgets to personalize their profiles."

Industry insiders are already raving about the newcomer to their market. "Lovetropolis.com is one of the major online dating sites," wrote Online Dating Magazine, and it's "The Next Great Dating Service," according to AloveLinksPlus. Users are also praising Lovetropolis.com. "The free lifetime membership is just icing on the cake. It's already a great dating site that any user would be happy to pay a monthly fee for," claimed one satisfied customer. "I'll never go anywhere else."
